I designed and taught this advanced research methods course for the gerontological stream of the MSW program. Students conducted a modified systematic review including submitting a protocol, searching multiple computerized data sets, searching the European and

North American gray literature and calculating effect sizes. Students are encouraged to submit their final product for publication in the peer reviewed literature.

Research for Evidence Based Social Work Practice (SWK 4510)

Master's Program, Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto

Introduced Winter 2005, Autumn 2005; Winter 2006, Autumn 2006 (course coordinator with 4 sections) Autumn 2007 (2 sections) Winter 2008, Fall 2008 (2 sections), Winter 2009, Fall 2009(2 sections), Winter 2011, Winter 2012 (2 sections) Autumn 2013, Winter 2014 (2 sections (course coordinated 10 sections 2009-2010 & 9 sections 2013-2014)

I assisted in the design of this applied research methods course. It is a required core course for all MSW students.

Social Work Research II - Module on Survey Methods, Sampling and Statistics (SWK 4502)

Master's Program, Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto

Autumn 1999, Spring 2000, Autumn 2000, Spring 2001, Autumn 2001 (2 sections), Autumn 2004 (course coordinator from 1999 to 2001 with 4-6 sections per semester)

I was involved in the original conceptualization of the module method of teaching this course. I designed and taught the required module on methods, sampling and statistical analysis. This module is one of four in the two-term research methods course SWK 4501/4502. In 1999/2000, this course was taught as SWK 4507/4508.

Social Work Research Project - Systematic Reviews (SWK 4503)

Master's Program, Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto

Winter 2005

I designed and taught this course in which students produced a systematic review of a social work intervention. Students were taught quantitative research methods, statistics and library skills.

Applied Quantitative Analysis for Social Workers (SWK 4506)

Doctoral Program, Master's Program, Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto

Introduced Autumn 1997, Autumn 2000

I proposed, designed and implemented this statistics course introducing major bivariate statistical techniques and critical analyses of statistical methods. Labs introduce SPSS software. This course is offered to MSW students new to statistics and doctoral students who opt not to take the competency exam. I supervised teaching assistant Cathy Worthington (1998-1999).

Intermediate Statistics and Data Analysis (SWK 6301)

Doctoral Program, Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto

Spring 1996, Spring 1997, Spring 1998;

I designed this required doctoral course to cover multiple regression, logistic regression and factor analysis. It has been significantly revised and improved over the years. Students apply major statistical techniques to a secondary data set using SPSS. I supervised lab assistant (1997-1998).

Critical Appraisal of the Social Work Literature (SWK 4507)

Master's Program, Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto
Spring 1996, Autumn 1996, Spring 1997, Autumn 1997, Spring 1998, Autumn 1998 (course coordinator from 1996 to 1999 with a total of 20 Sections)

This seminar course teaches students to critically analyze both quantitative and qualitative research about social work practice. As course coordinator, I revised course content, standardized course sections, and introduced examinations and competency tests. I supervised teaching assistants: Rachel Birnbaum (1996-1997); Robin Wright (1998-1999); Brigitte Mertins-Kirkwood (1998-1999); Kim Calderwood (1998); and Toba Bryant (1999).

Social Work Policy Issues in Health Care (SWK 4330)

Master's Program, Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto
Fall 1995, Spring 1997, Spring 1998, Summer 2000

I designed this introductory seminar course which uses a political economy perspective to examine how social policy formation affects the health and well-being of Canadians. In Fall 1995 this material was taught as a section of Social Welfare in the Canadian Context (SWK 4102).
